July 14, 2024 — 15th Sunday in Ordinary Time (B)

A Message from Fr. Tom Donovan:

Jesus chose twelve men from among all of his followers to be his special co-workers, whom we identify as apostles. Of this group, we knew that a few of them were fishermen, another was a tax collector. We don't know anything about the rest. These men were not particularly talented or successful as the world would see them. We probably would have never heard of any of them, had they not followed Jesus. But somehow as they witnessed the life, death, and resurrection of our Lord, they were transformed inwardly to become the evangelizers of a faith that would go throughout the entire known world.

If we were to form a team of twelve people to build a house, who would you choose? Probably we'd have someone with knowledge of architecture and engineering. We would want someone with expertise in concrete and someone else who knows carpentry. A plumber and an electrician would be helpful. Let's add a person or two who can do drywall, and hopefully there would be someone with interior decorating and landscaping experience to finish out the house... and so on, until the team was built. Even if we don't personally have the experience or expertise to build this house, most of us would have the foresight to understand what kind of skills and talents would be necessary to complete the job.

When Jesus walked the earth, he could have chosen anyone to join him... a spokesperson, a politician, a doctor, a lawyer, a particle physicist, his mom, a bodyguard. He chose these twelve simple men. Didn't he understand how difficult the mission of evangelization would be? Of course he did, but most importantly, he knew the hearts of these apostles—not what they could do for him or what they could provide for the apostolic team, but who they were deep within... even Judas his betrayer. When Jesus formed his apostolic squad, his standard was who they are, not what they are.

And then he goes on and tells his disciples, don't pack food or a money bag. You don't need a second tunic. You have everything you need. Go and preach where you find acceptance for great power will accompany you. Come back later and tell us what you see and do. There is a time for worry and a time for careful preparation and planning, but this is a time for faith. The Word carried by the Twelve would be powerful; it would speak for itself. That Word calls down glory, not to you or even your mission, but to God himself... to the praise of his glory. These Twelve who heard the call were to bring the Good News to the world... and so it goes in the Church even today.

We look forward to the 2024 edition of the St. Anthony Picnic. Events begin with 4:00pm Mass on Saturday, July 20. After Mass, food, drink, games, and all the other activities will open and run until midnight.

The major setup for the event will be on Wednesday evening starting around 5pm, as it has been in years past. Roast beef preparation will take place on Thursday. Tear-down and cleanup will take place through Sunday morning. "Many hands make quick work," so we welcome all the help we can get! If you are available to volunteer to help in any way, call the parish office: 222-5996 and we will get you connected!

There will be no 6:30pm Mass on Saturday, but instead we will have an extra Mass on Sunday at 6:30pm, especially for those who worked so hard on Saturday night, but for anyone who would like to take advantage of the additional time for this weekend!

St. Dominic School Families Share Testimonials

“What a blessing St. Dominic School has been to our family! Knowing that our children get to experience, learn, and talk about Jesus all throughout the day is truly a gift. The teachers, staff, and leadership of the school make it a priority to care about each student, pray for them and with them, and lead by humble example. We are grateful to be surrounded by service-oriented and faith-filled families. St. Dominic feels like home.”

-Elise Sutter
St. Dominic Parent

“We love St. Dominic school because it is a faith based and family oriented school. We felt welcomed as a family the moment our daughter began her journey as a preschooler. The students, staff, and school families welcomed us with open arms and really tried to get to know our whole family. Now, four years later Savannah is a first grader, with a new little sister, and I already feel like they have welcomed her into the school family as well. The family atmosphere allows our family to feel reassured that this is the best school for our children to learn and grow.”
