February 2, 2025 The Presentation of the Lord — (Wk 4 OT-C)

A Message from Fr. Tom Donovan:

The Sundays of Ordinary Time are interrupted today with the Feast of the Presentation of the Lord. Today's feast harkens back to Christmas as the Prophet Malachi speaks in our first reading, "I am sending my messenger to prepare the way before me; and suddenly there will come to the temple the Lord who you seek" (Mal 3:1). Again we recognize

John the Baptist as the 'messenger', but who is the Lord that would appear? It would be not a great warrior-king, but the humble child presented in obedience to the Law. The gospel answers the question, 'how will we recognize him when we see him?' It would be those watching and waiting who would first know the coming of the Lord.

On the day the Lord entered his temple, it would be in the arms of his mother, a son of Abraham. According to the Law, the poor couple offered what was prescribed: two turtle-doves. The Holy Family then encountered the prophetess Anna and the venerable old man, Simeon. These two distinguished themselves by fasting and prayer in anticipation of the coming of the Messiah. Like those who devote themselves today to the religious life and like those who in their age and wisdom find themselves drawn to the contemplation of the things of God, these two encounter the fulfillment of all of their hopes and dreams. It is the Lord! But what is the meaning of this revelation? For Mary it would be a 'second annunciation' which revealed even more clearly the nature of her child's mission: to be one who leads Israel to redemption by his suffering. Indeed, Mary's would share in these sufferings, as her own heart would be pierced by what she would come to witness and experience.

Then Simeon announces a great canticle of praise, entrusting his lifetime of prayer before the Lord: "Lord, now let your servant go in peace; your word has been fulfilled!" (Luke 2: 29) Like the soldier ordered to stand guard until relief arrives, Simeon recognizes this is the moment of the "changing of the guard". The Messiah is no longer shrouded in mystery and hope, but now inhabits our human nature and makes his dwelling with us. He is the Word of God in our midst. In his sufferings, the price of blood for the entire human family is paid. Simeon continues, "For my eyes have seen your salvation which you have prepared in the sight of all the peoples." His eyes had not been dimmed by age or the duration of his waiting or even the righteous need for sleep. His long, quiet life focused on the Lord was not to be an obstacle to charity, but rather the very perfection of it. What had been revealed to him in a heart formed by decades of prayer and penance and waiting was now to be announced to the entire world, "a light of revelation to the Gentiles, and the Glory of his people, Israel."

This feast is sometimes called "Candlemas" because of the ceremony of blessing of candles traditionally attached to this day. Unfortunately, our use of electric lights tends to diminish our appreciation for candles and the art of candle-making. But there is another tradition with a depth of spiritual meaning attached to the day, which is still popular in secular reckoning... "it's Groundhog Day!" When we are thrust out of the darkness of the dens we live in, forced to encounter the dawning of a new day, do we find ourselves afraid of the light and the shadows? Are we ready for a new spring of deliverance from the shadows of sin that we might embrace of the light of new life, or do we long for continued slumber under the earth? Today's feast has all of these layers of meaning and consideration. Unlike rodents in their burrows, our human capacity and desire for the good gives us the courage to shake off the relative comfort and slumber of darkness, to over-come its shadows and rise to the promise of new life... today. May this feast be a day of revelation and invitation for us to embrace that light!

Celebrate Vocations Day — Our Universal Call to Sainthood

During Catholic Schools Week on Tuesday, January 28, 2025, we celebrated our universal call to sainthood at St. Dominic School. Students had the opportunity to dress as a Saint and share their reason for their choice. Several older students chose to dress as the first millennial saint, Saint Carlo Acutis. Carlo's unwavering devotion to the Eucharist inspired him to tell the story of Eucharistic miracles through a website he created, which is now available across the world introducing countless people to the Eucharistic miracles. Students also enjoyed the opportunity to write recipes for sainthood together with their buddy. The recipes will be compiled into a "Recipes for Sainthood" cookbook and available for families to read.
